Thinking on Thanksgiving
When George W. Bush was President, he made a surprise visit to serve Thanksgiving Day dinner to soldiers deployed overseas. One reporter covering the story thought that some might save their meal as a souvenir, explaining, “It’s not often that anyone is served by the President.” The good leaders are those who are first and foremost good servants True thankfulness is more than being grateful for what we possess. It’s an attitude that permeates our relationship with the Lord so that we may serve Him and others with gladness and joy. Let’s prepare now to make it a great Thanksgiving.
